

Reconstructionist Rabbinical Association

RESOLUTION

MEMBERSHIP

2003

The RRA will not accept for membership someone who has been denied ordination by the RRC and has received ordination elsewhere, assuming that the reason for denial of ordination still pertains.

The same option to appeal a membership decision (i.e. appeal to the board) is available to former RRC students as to other applicants.

The Membership Committee during the coming year will draft guidelines to be used when they investigate any applicant where questions have been raised regarding that applicants' fitness for ordination by RRC. The Membership Committee will bring these guidelines to the board for approval to be finalized at the 2004 RRA convention by the plenum through an up or down vote.
